

Troy Price

Troy is a graduate of San Diego Golf Academy. Troy's focus on the best practices of teaching sound fundamentals assures players of all skill levels unlimited scoring potential by correcting basic flaws in swing, grip, posture, and set-up.

Troy's philosophy is that everybody has different athletic abilities and skill levels. He individualizes his instruction to suit each player's body type, ability, and skill. He knows that better posture, alignment, and improving swinging technique make for a more successful and enjoyable game of golf. If there's one aspect of golf that far too many amateurs overlook, it's the value of qualified instruction as a method to improve and advance in golf scoring and the pleasure of the game.

Troy works with players to identify their goals and create plans for achieving those targets. Troy adapts his communication and teaching method to match each student's learning style, strengths, and abilities. His patient teaching style and experience has earned him a reputation of developing the playing ability of students of all ages and experience levels.
